O o Between a structure and a system is that a structure is a tool; A system is the most sensible and comprehensive case interview strategy you can learn. Remember that the case questions help educate you during your job search, acting as a self-imposed screening device. Is that the kind of work you want to do? Is that the kind of environment you can learn and flourish in? You need to ask yourself: "I like to solve problems? Do I like these kinds of questions and problems? The questions of the case can and should be fun. The best way to get ready is to crouch and (i) read this book and not skip the pages; (ii) participate in all case questions workshops sponsored by consulting companies or your career service office; (iii) practice with your Econ teacher, roommates, friends and anyone you better start reading. .. 11. 2: The interview relaxes, it is worse than you think. If you imagine the chances of being chosen for an interview, having all the interview, having all the interview relaxes, it is worse than you enrolled in a first school. You have not only been accepted, you have prospered. So, forget the odds and focus on you. If there was some time for the tunnel vision, that's it. (Let's hope this is a little better.) CLICHA ©: You never have a second chance to make a first impression. The contact of the eye, a pleasant smile, and a tightness of firm mother is fundamental. First intervention usually two 45 minute interviews back to the first person spends 25 minutes talking to you about you (why consultancy,?) Asking examples of leadership, persuasion, failure and experiment in a team. Then a small case, or a market size, factor case, or small business problem. It ends with your questions to the company. The second person spends 10 minutes breaking the ice and then gives it a complete case, occupying 25 to 30 minutes and often including graze for dwarf. The last minutes are taken with his questions. 13. + Questions about you the first part of the interview is on $\hat{a} \notin \infty$ I know the knowledge you. McKinsey calls him Pei, which means personal experience interview. They are going to ask you to come with vain examples of times when you influenced or persuaded a group about your relationship style, and about the goals you set for yourself and went well succeeded in meeting. With other companiesAre you interviewing? In which other industries are you looking for? What achievements have given you the greatest satisfaction? What experiences/ skills do you think are particularly transferable to our organization? Why should I hire you? 15. Interviewer sees your name on achievements more than the common answers you want to be labeled. If you tell the interviewer sees your name on her list, she will remember you as "the Winds surfer. He talked about it coming back to her. If she sees her name and thinks: "What was he?" Your application is over. So enjoy the old treasure chest and present memorable stories and achievements that prove the skills needed to make it a strong candidate. 16. How do I respond? Three of the most problematic questions in the interview are: Have you ever missed anything? Which other companies are you interviewing with? How do you respond sincerely? Have you ever missed anything? Say yes! Everyone missed anything? Say yes! Everyone missed anything? Say yes! Everyone missed anything? failure and what you learned from that failure. Better yet, talk about how you failed, what you learned from this error, then how you turned it into a success. A perfect example comes from Michael Jordan. He failed to make his high school basketball team his first year, persevered and became a basketball legend. Have a story to tell; make it memorable. • No: don't talk about a personal failure. There are other types of first round telephone interviews will be times when your first round interview will be driven by phone. Sometimes, this is a tracking interview; Other times you will have a case question too. There are often things to remember. If possible, it comes to a quiet and private place. Turn off the television and lock the door so your roommate will not open and interrupt you. The most important thing is that you are your voice. This one is the thing that the person on the other side of the line has to continue. Your voice must be underestimated and enthusiastic; speaks clearly and trust, but if you get the answer very quickly, or the interviewer may hear botans being pushed in the background, you are sunk. 26. First case interviews of the McKinsey Round Group and other companies began conducting group interview, consultants look more at the group's dynamics than how the group answers the question. You are expected to move the discussion forward, not take it off on a tangent, or move the discussion back because you had a point you wanted to make. Remember, build on what other team members have said and don¢ÅÅt interrupt a team member when she is speaking. 27. + Stress Interviews Well, they¢ÂÂÂre back. Stress interviewers ask you question without giving you much of a chance to answer. They¢ÂÂÂll make unfavorable comments to each other about your answers, dismissing your answers as amateurish or ridiculous. They may even turn rude and snappish. Why do the interviewers do this? They put you through this to see how you react. Can you maintain your cool and your shout getting defensive? Can you maintain your cool and your answers without getting defensive? The second type is the silent treatment. The interviewer a question, he¢ÂÂÂt smile; he usually sits in silence waiting to see if you start talking. If you ask the interviewer a question, he¢ÂÂÂll usually shoot back a one-word answer. He might question many of your statements, making you explain even the simplest of answers. Why do they do this? They¢ÂÂAll tell you that silence leads to stupid statements, where interviewees will blurt out irrelevant conversation just to fill the silence, and it¢ÂÂs important to know how you would react in a situation like this with a client. Sometimes during a case you¢ÂÂll be asked to make a decision. You will be forced ? B kniht I .eussi yrotnevni eht tuoba kniht tândid I'm sorry. "T." Most of these students wanted to work initially in the United States before returning to their home countries. While many were successful, like their American colleagues, most were not. Consulting works are very competitive and highly sought after. I offer three additional advice for international students. 1. Be honest about your communication skills. Much of the interview process is driven by communication skills. Are you really fluent in English? Do you have an accent? How is it pronounced? A few years ago, I worked with a brilliant Chinese student at Harvard. He did very well in the zomba case interviews I gave him; however, his linguistic skills, particularly his presentation skills, were poor. While his understanding of English was excellent, his verbal and written skills left much to be desired. Against my advice, he asked the Boston offices of all major companies. While he received a series of first-round interviews, he did not get a single second-round interviews, he did not get a single second-round interviews. He found himself competing against the American Harvard students and he had no chance. 2. Think long-term and play your strengths. I've met a lot with a Russian student. Her English was excellent, she could articulate her thoughts andeven had a good command of "business English". While she had an accent from Eastern Europe, she was easy to understand. Your notes, work experience and extracurricular were just okay, but nothing great, so she faced some pretty stiff competition from her American classmates. She wanted to work in New York. Her problem was getting the first round interview. We talked about thinking long- term. If she applied to the Moscow office of these firms, she would have a significantly better chance of getting hired than if she focused on New York. She knew the language, the culture, and the economics of these firms, she would have a significantly better chance of getting hired than if she focused on New York. region, and she had a degree from a prestigious American university. She could work in Moscow for two years, then transfer back to the United States, which is exactly what she did. 3. Come back to campus in case-fighting form. Summer internships are tough to get, so don¢ÂÂt get discouraged if you don¢ÂÂt land one. I have pockets full of stories about students who didn¢ÂÂt get a summer internship but landed a full-time consulting job upon graduation. There are many more full-time opportunities than summer job where you will be developing some of the same skills you would if you worked in a consulting firm. The second is to practice your cases over the summer. I had a brilliant student from the Caribbean who had no business experience but plenty of great leadership experience. He received four first round summer internship interviews. He made it to the second round with two firms but didn¢ÃÂÂt get an offer. He spent the summer working for a large international financial agency in Washington, DC, where he wanted to settle. He spent the summer contacting alumni who worked in the DC offices of the two major consulting firms and invited them out for lunch, coffee and beer. He learned about their firms and he made great connections within those offices. Every time he sipped a coffee or drank a beer with them, he asked them to give him o office or drank a beer with them, he asked them to give him o office or drank a beer with them, he asked them to give him o offices. amu ed satsivertne sa articilos edop adador ariemirp A .ramot asicerp sABM-o£Ân sod airoiam a euq otircse rop oicÂcrexe o rezaf a odaticilos edop adador ariemirp A .ramot asicerp sABM-o£Ân sod airoiam a euq otircse rop oicÂcrexe o rezaf a odaticilos edop adador ariemirp A .ramot asicerp sABM-o£Ân sod airoiam a euq otircse rop oicÂcrexe o rezaf a odaticilos edop adador ariemirp A .ramot asicerp sABM-o£Ân sod airoiam a euq otircse rop oicÂcrexe o rezaf a odaticilos edop adador ariemirp A .ramot asicerp sABM-o£Ân sod airoiam a euq otircse rop oicÂcrexe o rezaf a odaticilos edop adador ariemirp A .ramot asicerp sABM-o£Ân sod airoiam a euq otircse rop oicÂcrexe o rezaf a odaticilos edop adador ariemirp A .ramot asicerp sABM-o£Ân sod airoiam a euq otircse rop oicÂcrexe o rezaf a odaticilos edop

I never like to equate an interview with a test, but they do have in common the fact that the more you prepare, the better you¢ÂÂll do. Maybe you¢ÂÂll do. Maybe you¢ÂÂll do maybe you¢All do maybe you¢ÂÂll do maybe you¢All do professor to hand it out so you can rip right through it. Case questions are the same way. Firms look to see if you have that ¢ÃÂÂrip right through it¢Ã look in your eyes. It¢Ã look in your eyes. It¢ÃÂS called confidence. Some of my students, even after they got the job, would come into my office and ask me to give them a case. They loved doing cases. To them it was no different than working a crossword puzzle. They loved the intellectual challenge, and they learned something new every time they did one. WHAT FIRMS LOOK FOR Consultants spend a great deal of their time on the road at the client¢ÂÂs site. They work in small teams and are sometimes put in charge of groups of the clients¢Â employees. Often, consultants work under great pressure in turbulent environments while dealing with seemingly unmanageable problems. It takes a certain type of personality to remain cool under pressure, to influence the client without being condescending and to be both articulate and analytical at the same time. As we said earlier, the business of consulting is really the renting of brains, packaged and delivered with an engaging and confident personality. So as you work through the case, the interviewer is asking herself: Is the candidate... relaxed, confident and probing questions? able to determine what¢ÄÄÅs truly relevant? organizing the information effectively and developing a logical framework for analysis? Are you about to wave? Is she delighted? Being trained also means asking for help when you need it. If you run to a wall, lose your thinking train or are just on your head, ask for help. Not ashamed to ask for help; It is a sign of maturity. Look at him from the interviewer's point of view. If you were working on a real project and got stuck, she would prefer you to ask for help than to waste time turning your wheels. 45. [11. Be creative and brainstorm] some of the best experiences you will have as a consultant will be brainstorming about Chinese food 10 hours at night. Brainstorming without compromise, as consultants call it, allows you to kick suggests not inhibited without being married to them. Give you the opportunity to review all options and eliminate the inappropriate ones. Consulting companies as liberal arts candidates with intellectual curiosity that can be € œWell outside Caixa € and offer a new and interesting perspective. 46. [12. Exude enthusiasm and a positive attitude] before, we talk about an attitude of â € œPar for it. Just do not do well in the case; You have to thrive on the challenge of the case. throughout the interview. 47. Analyze your findings, restore your and make a recommendation. You do not need to sum up all the answer; Choose two or three key points and tap them. Students are generally afraid to make a recommendation, thinking that their analysis was defective; therefore, their answers will be wrong. There are no wrong answers. Just make sure your answer makes sense of business and common sense. 48. + The types of questions (which are usually called market-sized questions), factorial questions, factorial questions. It is quite common to find a market sizing question included in a larger business case issue. Whether fun or frustrating, all the questions in the occasional first-round interview, so it is important to be aware of them. The whiteners are basically the same puzzles and puzzles that we are all struggling to solve since the fourth series. Some branturants have a definitive answer; Others are more flexible in their solutions. The interviewers seek to see not only if you can find a good answer, but also if you can handle the pressure. Are you frustrated, stressed and upset? The key is to keep calm and try to split the problem logically. Just give your best and not be afraid to laugh at your mistakes or be a little self-depreciative. It makes you human and more fun to be. Below is an example of a brandeaser with a definitive answer. 49. The gold bags exist three bags of gold. One of the bags contains fake gold. All the bags and all the coins are exactly the same. Structure or then the question, then determine the type of case, based population, home, general population or preposterous. Fault clarifying questions only if you do not understand the question; Then come back through it with the no. Supposits do not worry if your assumptions are out; The interviewer is more interested in his thought process 50. than if his assumptions are correct. If your assumptions are too far away, they say to you; If they will be let him go. Base your assumptions in a number (ie the 20% take into account x, y and z.) estimate mathematical or rounding up to facilitate the track. Write all the no. Examples are: How many will be in the US? How many garden hoses were sold in the US last year? How much does a 747 weigh? Although they seem similar, these are four very different questions. Here are some tips: Even if you had read an article from Forbes magazine about the number of willingness and could recite the exact total, the consultants would not care. They want to see how logically you answer the guession, $\hat{a} \notin c$ shave to work with wool and assumptions. Determine if this is a question based on the population, an individual question, or a question "Who thinks that?" question. To determine if it is a population, home or individual question, ask yourself if the item is used by a population of 30,000 inhabitants. There are six stations of the city that serve our city (not really, but six divisions right in 30). Therefore, I will assume that each gas station serves about 5,000 customers. If the US population is 300 million, I will divide 300 million, I will divide 300 million by 5,000 and get 60,000 gas stations in 51. USA. If you tried to answer this question based on households or individuals, you would quickly be injured in numerous and unnecessary calculations. How many garden hoses were sold in the US last year? (Domain Question) The US population is 300 million people. The House Mã © US Day is composed of 3 people, we are talking about 100 million fumálias. (You always want to work with 100 million Famálias in the USA and 200 million in Europe.) I will estimate that 50% of suburban or rural Fanmy. This makes 50 million fumãlias. I will also assume that 20 percent of these houses are relatively cheap, people probably use a garden hose in front and a hose in front and a hose in the backyard. This makes 80 million hoses. I want to add another 10 million hoses, which can be found in nurseries, zohic ones and other outdoor installations. Most of these It has at least two hoses. We are now at 90 million garden hoses. You receive 20 to 30 minutes to read and make notes When the time comes, a consultant arrives and you should "present" the case, as you would in a business class. Most of the time, a discussion occurs. You will probably be playing at the same points you would make if you had a verbal case. Here you are where it is really interesting. Sometimes when you finish reading the case, it is taken to a room where you will find two other candidates (all read the same case and are applying for the same position). Again, you must "present" the case. Consultants observe closely to see how you interact with other candidates say positively and civil? Monitor consultants seek to see how you interact with your colleagues. Are you a team player? Do you play well with other people? Can you hold yours? It all comes down to adjustment, communication skills, respect for others, empathy and teamwork. This is taking the brightness of the case questions as an interview tool a step further. There may be a last turn. S sometimes, when you arrive, you join two or other candidates in a small conofitioner room. All of you are the same case and requested to present it in 20 minutes. A monitor consultant remains in the conference room with you to monitor the group's interaction and dynamics, evaluating the leadership skills of all candidates. When your team is ready to present, two other consultants join and their "Team" presents the case. Now, one, two or all the TRONN CANDIDATES can be called back to the next round. While you act as part of a team during Case presentation, all are judged individually. Dust out of its grain and reading of granals is to look at the Great and Great Printed on The Wall Street Journal and The Economist and draw some conclusions. So read the article and compare your thoughts to the main points of the article. 60. Making slides and granted there is another torment: doing slides and granted. The recruiter gives you some data pages and asks you to create (on paper) transfers or four PowerPointâ® slides. You must enter them during the case as you would during a customer presentation. middle of the case, changing the dynamics of the question. You must quickly analyze the granals, extract the most important information, and then apply it to your answer. It is easy to get overloaded. Candidates tend to be acclaimed by the pressure to execute and not always see the elegance of the granals, extract the most important information. you look at each granior, I recommend that you ocular the numbers, round them up and then determine how they are related to each other, what tendencies you will come from and what a message you derive from what you are. As you look like you analyze the GRATHERS, there are good steps that will help you get your bearings: 1. Identifying the grain form is a bars, a bars, one line grain or pie grade? 2. Let's face it, these guys and roosters spend most of their days telling the CEOs of Fortune 1,000,000 companies to do. Now they have been swollen from a very important task interview him and a dozen of his closest friends. Yawn..."I postponed my meeting with Mark Zuckerberg for that? Light me up!" The first step towards Case Interview Dazzlement (CID) is to avoid expensive and obvious errors. Listed below are the common mistakes that past interviewees (some still unemployed) have made. The Leno / Letterman syndrome A five-minute monologue will do more to hurt your career than any of the other mistakes. Remember, you ask questions not only to get additional information but to draw the interviewer feel that he is a stakeholder in your candidacy. Turn the question into a conversation. What was the question again? Listen to the question, write it down, then repeat it to the interviewer. Candidates are always answering the wrong question because they don¢ÅÅÅt take the time to identify what the interviewer is really asking. Explosion of the mark and give the first answer that pops into your head. Take your time and analyze the information. The interviewer is there to observe the logic and thought process behind your answer. Digression city You go off on a tangent because it¢ÂÂs easy, you¢ÂÂre on a roll and it provides you with a false sense of security. You think it hides the fact that you can¢ÂÂt move forward in your answer, but it doesn¢ÂÂAt. Tangents take you off the path and it becomes extremely difficult to get back on the straight and narrow. A case question was, ¢ÂÂHow do we increase sales for the local 7-Eleven convenience store?¢ÂÂA You start walking down the corridor and you open the first door on the right and yell, ¢AÂÂWe need to get more people in the store.¢AÂÂ Close the door and move on. The problem arises when you open the door and yell, ¢AÂÂWe need to get more people in the store.¢AÂÂ Then you start walking down the side hall trying to come up with creative ways to get more people in the door. You come with all types of promotions involving your favorite afternoon snack food. This is fancil! But this is not the question. The bull in the porcelain store consultancy does not use terms that you do not fully understand. Launch a buzzword term or business in the wrong context highlights the fact that you have a unpleasant habit of discussing things you know little about. You may be able to get away with it in class, but it doesn't fly in a case interview, will the company be able to get away with it in class, but it doesn't fly in a case interview. If you do this in an interview, will the company be able to trust you in front of a customer? Open questions open questions that try to get the interviewer to answer the case for you going to the interviewer, a great moment. It is much better to make assumptions than asking the working costs: right. Because the economy is strong and there are many jobs, I will assume that our work costs have risen. 63. Wrong: What has happened to our working costs? Silä^ancio one of the guestions that often ask me is about Silä^ancio. Can you be silent? Yes and no. The simple rule of remembering is that Silancio is okay when you are doing something like calculating, writing your thoughts, or drawing a grantee or decision. You can get 40 seconds from Silancio before the relief "Awkward" starts to score and the interviewer gets restless. It's not okay when you're just thinking while looking down on your shoes, particularly in the case of the case of the case. If the interviewer gives you the window or looking down on your shoes, particularly in the water. (See the first four steps and read summarize the question in Page 32.) 64. + If you get stuck if you get stuck during a case and the interviewer does not ask a question to help him, There are some things you can do. give a moment to recap whereI was. You're probably in too much detail and now you're stuck in the mud or you're out in a tangent. The recap pulls him out of the mud and back above the trees. Remember, most of the time, you want to see the case from a macro point of view. Often, when recaping, you can see where you left the track. The second thing to do is go back and look at the information the interviewer gave you. The information originally irrelevant generally becomes relevant as you work in the case. Third, run guickly through the five C'S... (see page 49) in your head to see if there's no shame in asking for help. If we were working together on a project, I prefer that you ask me for help than you waste a lot of time hitting your head against a wall. That said, I wouldn't ask for help more than once. 65. + The math problem Do you have trouble making math in your head? Do you usually leave for zero? When I do interviews with students, the most common problem is basic mathematics. It's the zeros students have problems with. From Ph.D.S to Graduates, it is The Zeros. Take a look at the table below and know very well. 66. + Design Notes, while there is no pattern for notes, the landscape format is becoming the norm. The first page of the notes is divided into two sections. Many consulting firms favour the use of graphic paper. There are several reasons why. The graphic paper makes it easy to draw your notes. Be visual with your notes. Draw boxes, charts, arrows, decision trees, value chains and flow chart. When appropriate, turn your notes to the interviewer. The graphic paper aligns your zeros. There's a lot of math in these questionsyou cannot use a calculator. Calculator. is not always easy to tell when you are off by a zero when your answer has eight zeros at the end of it. Graph paper organizes your notes. Well-organized notes make it easier for the interviewer to follow. When he isn¢ÅÅÅt looking into your eyes, he¢ÅÅÅt looking at your notes to see what you wrote down because he knows what you should be writing down. In addition, there is a good chance that the interviewer will collect your notes at the end of the interview. He uses your notes as one more data point ¢Â what did you write it? How did you write it? How did you write it? interview, rip out five pages of graph paper and number them (you can do this before the interview to save time and look well-organized). Remember to just write on one side of the page. Flipping pages back and forth can be disruptive and make it hard to find important data at a glance. Using bullet points will make your notes seem better organized and make it easier to go back to find information. Star or highlight important points that you think will make the summary. This way those points will jump out at you when it comes time to summarize the case. As you fill up the pages (while leaving plenty of white space on your notes), spread your notes out in front of you. That way you can see the whole case at a glance. You¢ÂÂll want to check the first page of notes from time to time. There is a lot of important information on that first page. Some of it is immediately relevant; some is smoke put there to throw you off track. Other information will become relevant as you move through the case. Some students use a separate sheet for their math. That way your main notes stay clean and linear. If you do use a separate sheet, make sure that you label each calculations. snif mes mu arap odnahlabart of AsAaudarg-s³Ap ed alocse a e of AsAaudarg a ertne opmet ues odassap ahnit alE .eugaeL yvI ad alocse amu ed appaK ateB ihP odaudarg ahnit euq onula mu eviT sosaC ed lanroJ + .84. 4 airatneserpa rotlusnoc mu euq s @Âvnoc mu ed lanif edils od soriecraP ed sosaC ed lanroJ + .84. 4 aratneserpa rotlusnoc mu euq s @Âvnoc mu ed lanif edils od soriecraP ed sosaC ed lanroJ + .84. 4 aratneserpa rotlusnoc mu euq s @Avnoc mu euq s lanif edils o ariq onula o ,sadihcneerp of. I saw her five years after she graduated and she still had her journal. Despite being as beaten as the diary of Indian jones, he kept so many treasures. She went to a new job and the paper was the first thing she did. Since then, I recommend creating a journal whenever I speak in schools. In addition to keeping all your notes in one place, it becomes a single source of case material that is also extremely useful for your classes. if you are really serious about case interviews, then you will continue to read and practice, life will be easier in the fall. 69. 4 : Ivy© 70 case system. + arap arap dravraH ed setnadutse ed of A§Aamrof ed sona suem soN rasnep ed osac Case questions, I realized that the big problem that many of my students are just just starting. They are not a clue. Thus, in 1996, with the help of a student, I developed Tomensen / Cosentino Case Framework. Over the years he has been successfully tested in thousands of case interviews. After hundreds of unbridling, I reflected it, simplified and renamed. But the greatest change is that I made it a structure into a system, the Ivy Case Systemâ ©. A structure is a structure into a system, the Ivy Case interviews. way. Many times, however, you have to cut and paste from a number of paintings in order to answer any case in case. As I mentioned, the difference between a framework is really a tool, while a system is a process. Instead of memorizing seven individual frames and then trying to decide which one to apply, you learn the system, which I already have the tools constructed. Ivy Case Systemâ © is a two -party system made up of four steps to you and 12 popular case scenery (see sidebar), each equipped with a collection of ideas and questions that will help you structure the rest of your answer. If you follow the outline I gave to every scenery, you may be confident that your answer will be wide and cohesive. You will find out that there is a lot of overlap between the 12 scenes, you are learning perhaps five. And because it is all based on the sense of business and common sense, you will find that there is nothing that you do not know ... It is just organized a little different. These first four steps will provide you with a rudeness (no long and embarrassing pause between question and answer). o o arap sotunim ocnic ravel et of Av OS .evitcejbo gniylrednu ,Lanoitidda, ytilibisop a syala si e ytilibisop a syala si Ereht , Suoivbo Smees ot ot Eseht ?Citsepepxe esht esht esnoitatcapetepxe saleph skalililililililililililililililililili the choice of case scene comes directly from the goal. And external market factors (ie replacements, economy, interest rates, rate of Unemployment, court cut by competitors, increased material costs). The product: If it is a new product, ask about the advantages and disadvantages and disadvantages and disadvantages. World forgets to ask about the disadvantages can drive your answer more than the advantages.) * Note: Keep in mind how the economy, the Internet and other new technologies affect each question. 76. [4. Lay Out Your Structure] This is by far the toughest part of the process and you may want to ¢ÃÂAtake a moment¢ÃÂA to think about structure] This is by far the toughest part of the process and you may want to the proces and you may want to the process and you interview. You¢ÂÂve decided which case scenario(s) to work with, and you have asked a few broad questions that have given you the information you can quickly go through the bullet points in your mind and decide which are most relevant to this particular question. You then just need to tell the interviewer how you plan to proceed. With some cases, laying out your structure is the answer to the case itself ¢ÂÂs objective, and voilà Å, you¢ÂÂAre done. With other cases, you¢ÂÂAl actually need to walk through some of your proposed steps. It should be obvious (by the nature of the question and the interviewer¢ÂÂÂs feedback) which path a specific case calls for. Most consultants think graphically. They communicate to clients through PowerPointî slides, graphs and charts. Many students find that it helps to draw a decision tree is a map of the reasoning process ¢Ã visually breaking the case down into components and laying out your structure. It allows you to review your options and investigate the possible outcomes, while weighing the risks and rewards of each course of action. * Note: The more cases you practice, the more you¢ÂÂll be able to draw on those practice cases during the interview. For example, if you know you¢ÄÄÄre working with an entering-a-new-market case, you can think back to that Yellow Stuff Chemical Company case (page 77) and use it as a guide. 77. + The 12 soiranec S soiranecs
